	University of Ottawa STEM Building	Ottawa, Canada	University	The University of Ottawa is a top-tier research institution located in the center of the Canadian capital overlooking the Rideau Canal. The newly built STEM Complex features unique lab facilities for world-class physics research. Mechanical and heavy-duty labs for research in building physics take center stage. The building's sustainability is also impressive. An innovative glass rain screen was constructed as the building envelope, which also minimizes the building's energy loss. Waste heat from a nearby heating plant is used for heating, allowing the building to achieve a net-zero energy footprint even during the long, harsh Canadian winters and qualify for LEED Gold. Condair hybrid humidifiers ensure healthy and comfortable room air humidity.
